ONE ON THE CONDUCTOR. Thought Mulatto Was White Man and So Seated Him.

Man and So Seated Him.

An amusing inclident occurred on one of the street cuts of the city recently, and it was greatly enloyed by some of the passengers who say through it, though the conductor did not,

As the ear was making its way west a variety of passengers got on at Monroe Park. Among them was an old mulatte man, almost white, who is well known about town. He was about to take a geat in the space marked out for the colored contingent, when the confuctor, thinking he was white, ordered him to "more up." At first the man stepped of the alse, apparently to allow the conductor to pags. The latter got behind him instead, and a rather commanding voice, said: "I have teld you to move up mee, and I mean it. I tell you now for the last time. Yen must take your seat in the white section."

Finally the old man went forward and sat down beside a white man, wondering yelly he had been given this distinction over others of his race. The white passengers laughed and the car went on its way.

FOUR BEARS HOLD UP AN EXCURSION TRAIN

(Special to The Times-Dispatch, TOCK HANEN, PA., July T.—Pour bears topped an excursion on the Cannual and Black Forest Italiway a few days ago.

When the train neared Wileox Summit a large bear was seen standing on the trettle, digging around some of the supports, making it unsafe for the train to cross.

All efforts of the train crows and 250 picturistics on the train to discusse the critical with stones and clubs were unavailing, until several long poles were secured. On the end of these poles oil-soaked waste was fusiented and then fried. A charge was then unade on the animals, and they retreated into the forest.
